

ROBERTSON

OF STRUAN

CONAN OF GLENEROCHIE, was a younger son of Henry, Earl of Atholl, and to whom his father assigned the lands of Glenerochie. He made a grant of the woods of these lands to the monks at Coupar Angus in around 1240x45, in which charter he is styled “Conan son of Henry, Earl of Atholl,”¹ and granted the dead wood of his lands of Tulyhen to the Abbey of Lindores in 1240x1245.² He was father of :

1. Ewen of Glenerochie, (see below).
2. A daughter who m. Hath, son of Gilbrid. He is styled “genero” to Conan when witness to a charter by Conan to the Abbey of Lindores.³

EWEN OF GLENEROCHIE, styled as son of Conan when witness to a charter by his father to the Abbey of Lindores in around 1240x1245.⁴ He granted his lands of Calziebrochan to the Monks of Coupar Angus Abbey in 1282 to be held by them of Ewan and his daughters and their respective husbands as superiors. He m. Muriel, daughter of Conghal, grandson of Malise, Steward of Strathearn, and d. without male issue prior to 1284. Although his daughters were his heirs in certain parts of his lands such as those of Calziebrochan, he was ultimately succeeded in his lands of Glenerochie by the Robertsons of Struan as heirs male.

ANDREW DE ATHOLIA, OF GLENEROCHIE, is the first ancestor of the Clan Donnachaidh for whom there is positive proof. He is styled as father to Duncan de Atholia and grandfather to Robert de Atholia in several documents executed in the first half of the 14th century. Tradition states that he m. the daughter and heiress of Angus de Glenerochie with whom he acquired these lands although in view that the destination of these particular lands being exclusively to the heir-male this cannot have been so therefore a male descent from the Earls of Atholl is proved. He was father of,

DUNCAN DE ATHOLIA, 5TH OF GLENEROCHIE, had a charters for the lands of Discher and Toyer from Duncan, Earl of Fife, in around 1343⁵ and for the lands of Appin of Dull from John, Bishop of Dunkeld, in December 1355 in both of which he is styled as son of Andrew de Atholia, and succeeded as heir-male to the lands of Glenerochie. He is said to have m. firstly, a daughter of Malcolm, 5th Earl of Lennox, with whom he acquired lands in Rannoch and Fortingal, and secondly, a daughter of the Lord of the Isles but there is no proof for either marriage. He is thought to have d. between 1355-1357 and was father of,

1. Robert de Atholia, (see below).
2. Patrick Duncanson, 1st of Lude, (see Robertson of Lude).
3. Gibbon, said to be a brother of Robert de Atholia and Patrick Duncanson who was one of their fellow commanders at the Angus raid in 1392.

ROBERT, SON OF DUNCAN DE ATHOLIA, who, tradition states, was named Robert at the request of King Robert I. in memory of when he sought refuge in Atholl following defeat at the battle of Methven in June of 1306. He m. firstly to the daughter and heiress of Sir John Stirling, of Glenesk, and had issue ;

1. Jean de Atholia, m. Alexander Menzies of Fortingall, to whom her father granted a charter for various lands temp David II. and in which she is styled aone of the heirs of Glenesk.¹ They had issue.

He m. secondly to the daughter and heiress of Fordell, following which he had a charter under the Great Seal of King David II. for the half-lands of Fordell, in the Shire of Perth, on 24 May 1362, in which he is styled as son of Duncan de Atholia,² and by whom he was father of,

2. Thomas Duncanson of Struan, apparently the eldest son as he inherited the majority of his estate at his death. He had a charters for the lands of Struan, Straloch, Easter Davach. Thomcury, Dalcharny and Dekarwand, from King Robert III. in around 1398³ and appears to have d. sometime between July of 1443 and August of 1451. He was father of,

2a) Matilda Duncanson, who, on her own resignation, had a charter under the Great Seal of King James II. for the lands of Cogreth, Dalherny and Thomamry, in the Earldom of Atholl, on 4 August, 1451, to be held by herself for the duration of her life and thereafter by John Alexanderson, son of Alexander Reid Patrickson, and his heirs, whom failing, by Alexander Reid, his brother german, and in which she is styled as daughter of the deceased Thomas Duncanson.⁴ She m. her cousin Alexander de Atholl, son of Patrick, 1st of Lude. Her Tocher was the lands of Straloch and from whom descends the Robertsons or Reids of Straloch.

3. Duncan de Atholia, (see below).
4. Patrick Robertson, apparently a son of Robert, son of Duncan de Atholia, who appears with Duncan Robertson at a sitting of the court of Walter, Earl of Atholl, at Logierait on 21 September, 1428, at which John MacNab, of Bovaine, produced a Precept by Robert Stewart, Duke of Albany, and requested that it be transumpt.⁵

DUNCAN ROBERTSON, DE ATHOLIA, was present at a sitting of the Court of Walter, Earl of Atholl, at Logierait on 21 September, 1428, and granted a charter, with consent of his eldest son and heir Robert, of roods of land in Little Dunkeld to Sir Donald MacNaughton, Doctor of Decrees and Dean of Dunkeld, on 20 January, 1438, in which he is styled as “Duncan Robertson de Atholia.”¹ He is said to have m. to a Graham, d. by 1 June, 1443, and was father of,

1. Robert Rioch Duncanson of Struan, (see below).
2. Duncan Robertson, said to be ancestor of the Robertsons of Inches and Kindeace.

ROBERT RIOCH DUNCANSON, OF STRUAN, gave consent to his father granting roods of land to Sir Donald MacNaughton, Dean of Dunkeld, on 20 January, 1438, and granted a charter for the lands of Fynnach in favour of Sir David de Moray of Tulliebardine on 1 June, 1443.² He succeeded to the lands of Struan apparently as heir-male to his uncle Thomas Duncanson the previous possessor which he resigned to the Crown “apud castrum de Blar in Atholia” and for which he thereafter obtained a charter under the Great Seal for the lands of Struan, the middle-part of Rannoch, Glenerochie, the two Bohespicks, Grannich with the loch and island thereof, Carrick, Innercardone, Fernan, Disert, Faskally, Kylkeve, Balnaguard and Balnefart and Glengarry with the forest thereof, all in the Earldom of Atholl, from King James II. which were thereafter erected into the Free Barony of Struan for his good service rendered in capturing Robert Graham, the assassin of King James I. on 15 August, 1451.³ He m. Margaret, daughter of Sir John Stewart, 1st of Bute, natural son of King Robert II., is said to have died from wounds received in battle near Perth with Sir William de Ruthven of that Ilk in around 1459 and was father of,

1. Alexander Robertson of Struan, (see below).
2. Robert Robertson, (see Robertson of Dalcapon).
3. Patrick Robertson, of Invervack, had a charter under the Great Seal for the lands of Balnagrew and the east-part of the lands of Invervak on 24 September, 1501.⁴
4. Margaret Robertson, m. Sir Colin Campbell, 1st of Glenorchy, (he was widow of Janet, daughter and coheiress of Sir John Stewart, of Innermeath and Lord of Lorn, and m. for a third time after the death of Margaret to Margaret, daughter of Luke Stirling of Ratherns and Keir), and had issue.
5. Elizabeth Robertson, m. by 22 July, 1450, George de Menzies, son and apparent heir of John de Menzies of Weem when they had a charter of conjunct infeftment for the lands of Morynche.⁵

Robert Duncanson of Struan, also seems to have had at least two other sons although little proof other than their adoption of the surname of Robertson and the period of time at which they did so is offered in support of this ;

Alistair from Edinburgh after the battle of Prestonpans in Sir John Cope's personal coach. When close to home the roads were in such poor condition that when it could go no further, his men unhooked the horses, took off the wheels and carried it and he to his front door. It was left to rot closeby and could be seen there for many years afterwards. He was a well-known Poet but highly eccentric in his ways and in a dispute with his sister Margaret over the ownership of the lands of Struan, he had her kidnapped and taken firstly to the outer isles and from there to Dundee until she was found and released by her agents. After the failure of the Jacobite cause in April of 1746 he skulked in and around Struan until dying unmarried and without issue on 18 April, 1749.

ALEXANDER DONALDSON, who was father of,

ALEXANDER DONALDSON, 8TH OF LUDE, succeeded as heir to his “grandfather’s brother” John Donaldson of Lude, to whom he was returned heir in the lands of Lude on 3 July, 1616. He gave Letters of Premonition warning John Tarlochson of Monzies of his intention to redeem the wadset on the lands of Easter and Wester Monzies on 25 March, 1616, and renounced the wadset of these lands to the superior Ogilvy of Inchmartin in 1616.

OF LUDE (2ND FAMILY)

ORIGIN. The second family of Robertsons to possess the lands of Lude are descended from a gentleman bearing the christian name of Charles who lived in the latter half of the 15th century and from whom his descendants took their patronymic of “Tarlochson” or “son of Charles.” Although he is said to have been a younger son of the first family of Lude no evidence to corroborate this fact has been located with existing accounts of the early ancestry of this family being incorrect with regard to the time period in which this Charles is said to have lived although, despite the inaccuracy of the tradition, it is highly probable that this Charles is identical with the Charles Johnsoun who was witness with Alexander Robertson of Struan and various others of the Clan to an Instrument of Sasine for the lands of Easter and Wester Duntaullich in favour of John Stewart, Earl of Atholl, in 1484, and which, if this is indeed correct, would confirm his father as having borne the christian name of John and would point towards his being a younger son of John Donaldson of Lude. He is said to have m. Liliast, daughter of Sir John Lamont of that Ilk, and was father of,

JOHN TARLOCHSON, 1ST OF MONZIES, had a charter for the lands of Easter Monzies, in the Barony of Lude, from John Donaldson of Lude on 10 April, 1510,¹ and from whom he had a further charter for the lands of Wester Monzies on 10 May, 1513.² He m. Margaret, daughter of Sir James Ogilvy of Inchmartin, and was father of,

1. John Tarlochson, 2nd of Monzies, (see below).

2. Christian Tarlochson, m. Andrew Cardney of Pitcastle, from whom she had an Instrument of Sasine for certain parts of his estate on 28 February, 1529, in which she is styled as his future spouse.³

JOHN TARLOCHSON, 2ND OF MONZIES, succeeded his father and had a charter for the lands of Inchmagranoch and Newton from Robert MacNair, Canon of Dunkeld, on 21 April, 1564. He m. Beatrix, daughter of Gardyne of that Ilk, (she was widow of Finlay Farquharson, 1st of Invercauld, who had been killed at the battle of Pinkie in September of 1547, and by whom she had issue), with whom he is mentioned in an Instrument by which it confirmed the grant by Robert McNair, prebendar of Inchmagranoch, to John Tarlochson and Beatrix Gardin, his spouse, of the lands of Inchmagranoch, dated 24 April 1564.⁴ He d. by 16 May 1587, and was father of,

⁵ Blair Castle Archives Box 10 Parcel II. No. 28

I received your much esteemed favour last winter which you sent by Alexr Robertson who sent it here by another person. Duncan Cameron's son I have not seen. He & John Cameron's son has settled in Nova Scotia. I am informed my brother-in-law died last year, please let me know how he settled his estate for it was entailed to my eldest son failing of heirs of his own body. Neil was talking of going home when I have seen him last for he lives at Montreal, is still unmarried and has a great deal of property. I lost two of my sons since I wrote you last. Alex was lost going to England & James died a natural death at Montreal & left most of his property to his brothers. Patrick keeps a wholesale store at Montreal unmarried. I am now in my 80th year, much failed. I got a good track of land here, made up a house that cost about £100. I have about 60 acres clear. I have rented it to one Duncan Cuming that came here last year. I cannot look much after anything but thank God I have plenty to make me live comfortably. Be so good as to let me know about my Grandnephews in Tulimet & Strathardle and the poor remains of the Fascally family. Let me know what family your uncle has left & I hope they come on. Give my Compliments to Strowan & tell him I am sorry he does not marry. Make my compliments to Achleeks & tell him that I am his Godfather when he was baptized that he ought to write to me. Give my compliments to my Cousins Daniel and James Stewarts for whom I had always a great regard. I am told that Duntanlich sold his estate he has always been a very unfortunate man. Remember me to all my old friends & acquaintances. A great many families from the highlands of Scotland have arrived here. I have not seen any of them yet. My compliments to Mrs Robertson and family. I am, Dear Cousin, your sincere friend and humble servant. THOS ROBERTSON. PS Do not forget to write me for I will not grudge the postage to the care of Patrick Robertson, Montreal"
